So my app I created represents my big interest in sports. I started with 4 pretty common sports that I like, which are football,tennis,basketball and golf.
So my thinking behind this app was more news related and keep people updated with some sports news. When you click football 4 leagues show up which is the premier league, la liga,bundesliga and the seria a also each new screen has a related image and a back button returning to the last screen.When you click any of the leagues the option of table,fixture and news show up and then go the relevant link when clicked upon.the golf, tennis and nba have the similar attributes except the fact there's no table in tennis or golf so I just made it more news related, so link goes to some news websites.
The main difficulties I had creating the app was finding the right image to suit each screen and finding the correct user friendly website to link to the app.
